This topic focuses on two PITC program policies: small groups and individualized care. The Program for Infant and Toddler Care seeks to ensure that America's infants get a safe, healthy, emotionally secure and intellectually rich start in life. Caregivers/Teachers will learn how using small and individualized experiences support programs to meet the unique needs of each child, for example, the children's age, developmental level, temperament tendencies, family and cultural practices, and differing abilities. In addition, we will identify developmentally appropriate math and science concepts and learn how to implement them into your daily schedule.
